iVote Winner of Balkan Venture Forum

iVote is the winner of the regional Balkan Venture Forum that was held on 14-15 November in Tirana. Balkan Venture Forum is organized by Europe Unlimited.

iVote, as one of the most innovative companies with sound references in electoral processes around the world was declared winner from the Balkan region. iVote's company performance and business potential for international development were evaluated very positively by the jury composed of experienced venture capital experts and business angels.

This is the utmost important event in the whole region when it comes to securing important funding in the scope of further international rapid growth. iVote is now invited to present at the European Venture Summit in Dusseldorf, Germany on 9-10 December in front of international audience of investors, corporate representatives and innovation experts. Only 100 entrepreneurs from whole Europe are selected to pitch their business and compete for the European Venture Prizes 2013. The EVC presents itself as a unique opportunity in today's tough economy to get international exposure and secure funding. The innovation, business potential to grow, financial stability, and the possibility to expand to international markets contributed for the company to be part of the most important venture event of the year.
